

From the Washington State Department of Ecology, Water Quality Consortium, Nonpoint Water Pollution Education Campaign.

Copies of posters and fliers are available at low cost for use by local watersheds and communities. The materials are designed to increase awareness of nonpoint pollution and everybody's unwitting contribution to it. The four targeted pollution sources are vehicle oil leaks, car wash soaps, lawn fertilizer overuse, and pet waste.